Radio to Revamp Music Programs For Unpaid Time

New York, Dec. 2. (A).-Music of most of the contemporary popular composers, members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, will be gone from the non-commercial programs of all three major radio networks within a fortnight.

The Columbia Broadcasting System took a decisive step in the music royalty controversy be-tween the Broadcasters and ASCAP yesterday when it banned all ASCAP tunes from its sustaining, or unsponsored, programs.

Mutual Broadcasting system's station WOR will follow suit next unday, and on December 15, the National Broadcasting Company also will delete ASCAP music from its non-commercials. Meanwhile, both ASCAP, con-

In answer to this, I wrote: Nat-urally you call them what you always have. When you introduc them, you introduce the dentist and the physician as "Dr." and the minister as "The Rev. Mr. Blank." (Don't leave the "Mr." out be-tween "The Rev." and his last name.) If the minister is a D. D. it is "not" polite to call his "The Rev. Dr. Blank." But you must never use the word "Rev." immediately before a surname. The insertion of "not" before

'polite" was a really serious error. The right answer is "Reverend Doctor Blank." If you want to be most polite, "The Reverend Doctor Blank," is correct. Refreshments at a Tea Dance

Young Widow Marries Again Dear Mrs. Post: (a) I am a young widow, marrying again after four years. Is it customary for a widow to be given away by someone, and in a case like my own where my father is performing the ceremony, who would do this? SHOP EARLY, MAIL EARLY

With holiday purchases here expected to reach new records, local merchants have stocked their stores with attractive Christmas merchandise and they are now awaiting hopefully for the customers to do their Christmas shopping early.

Local merchants have attractive gifts for every pocketbook, as may be seen in the advertisements appearing in this issue of The Freeman. These are but some of the values offered and local merchants will replenish their stocks provided they receive ample notice. This can only be furnished by early

Sometimes customers shop early in the season while others wait until until the last week. They always come but in waiting they do themselves a disservice. The early shopper gets the best choice of gifts to select from the Christmas stock and he has sufficient time to make proper selections. Carefully considered purchases are more likely to be satisfactory to both giver and receiver than those hastily made in the last minute rush. There is also greater pleasurer to be had in shopping earlier as it is easier on the nerves and disposition. And you may do without the articles you intended to purchase if you

For out-of-town gifts, the Post Office requests people to mail gifts early that the customary rush of the holiday season might be partly lessened and to make certain that gifts reach their destination on time. The postman's burdens will also be lightened if there is no great last minute rush of deliveries. By making purchases early and sending them early, the merchants, clerks and postal employes, who are anxious to serve you, will be able to be of better service. If the customer will do his part he will both help himself and his fellow man.

SMOTHERED FIRE

W. A. Ober of Jones, Louisiana, is probably a unique fire-fighter. He owns a general store. The other day a fire broke out in it. The nearest fire department was 46 miles away. Ober telephoned for help, and then got busy.

He closed every window and door in the store, stuffed the cracks with paper and sacks, then climbed to the roof and put some sacks in the chimney. He succeeded in shutting off all draft and the fire succumbed to lack of oxygen. It was smoldering when the fire department arrived but was extinguished quickly and easily because of Ober's action.

The news story didn't explain why Ober couldn't have put his fire out with a bucket of water, but there must have been a reason. At least, the firemen commended him for making "just the proper moves." It is a good thing to know about different kinds of fire and what to do to check them before the professional fire-fighters arrive.

COMPULSORY MOVIES

High school students in Brazil who are studying English are required to go to the movies twice a week. There are 1700 movie theatres wired for sound in that country, where American talkies are shown in English with titles added in Portuguese.

This method of studying languages must make a hit with the young Brazilians. French, Spanish and Portuguese talkies would doubtless help our young ideas to spout in other tongues than their own. Occasional foreign language movies are shown in our larger cities, but for the most part we have to learn our languages from books and take our movies in the vernacular.

The thing that leaves wonder in the mind is what dialects the young Brazilians will pick up-and how much slang. But the only thing that matters is that the growing generation in North and South America should learn to understand each other better than their elders ever did.

ARTIFICIAL AVALANCHE

A brief dispatch from Norway inspires the hope that the disarmed and handicapped Norsemen are far from licked. It tells of a series of avalanches at closely spaced inter-line. The spacing and timing of these disasters look like the planned action of men rather than nature. It will take weeks of work to restore normal rail transportation. Extra military guards have been placed upon all highways and railroads to prevent future

If patriotic Norwegians have found a way to harass the conqueror's forces, they are not going to be wholly deterred from their purpose by added watchfulness on the part of the Nazi masters. More avalanches seem more than probable, or, if not avalanches, some other effective form of sabotage.

SHOOTING RUMANIANS

The pro-Nazi Iron Guardists stood 64 of their countrymen up in front of the tomb of a dead leader and shot them.

Nothing could more clearly illustrate the madness of the present situation in Europe. Here are two sets of men, pro-Nazis and anti-Nazis, both loyal to Rumania in their ways, killing each other off when either gets the upper hand. The motives? First, difference in point of view as to the conduct of the government, and second, pure and simple

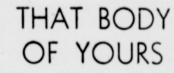

There's a sadistic, hysterical atmosphere about all this procedure which to the Briton and American of sober and decent mind is completely revolting. It's about time the Axis cracked. It's doing the world no good.

That league of selfish dictators works together all right when planning conquest but shows signs of falling apart when it comes to dividing the spoils.

A millionaire can carry a bigger debt than a day laborer. Safety lies not in the amount of money borrowed but in the resources and securities from which re-payment will come

If there is any sure way to prevent war, it certainly is not the way of weakness, fearfulness, or cowardice.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.) SLEEPINESS AND WAKEFULNESS

One of my summer neighbors came to me one evening and invited me to go fishing next morning. I was unable to go and he was much disappointed. I then asked him about Bill Blank who usually accompanied him on his fishing trips.

Oh, Bill has no time to go fishing any more. He seems to sleep all night and wants to sleep all day."
"What about Jack Blank?"

"Jack says he wakes up about 2 o'clock every morning, can't go to sleep for hours, and dreams much that he is not rested in the morning and so doesn't feel like going fishing so early in the morn-

Why did Bill want to sleep all the time and Jack have to lie awake for hours every night?

Bill had a number of infected teeth covered with crowns and bridgework and because they caused no pain did not visit his dentist regularly. He had never had an X-ray examination of his teeth. By the time this infection was discovered, it was too late to save his life. He died of heart disease.

Jack's wakefulness was due to his overeating at the evening meal, especially large fat or starch desserts. About 8 hours after a meal, our physiological inform us, the liver is doing its hardest work. It is thus at this time-about 8 hours after the evening meal eaten at six o'clock or thereabout-that is, two o'clock in the morning, that discomfort, though often very slight, is enough to disturb sleep and cause wakefulness. An examination of the gall bladder and a test of the ability of the liver to do its work, showed no abnormal condition.

The only treatment necessary to prevent this wakefulness was to eat the large meal of the day at noon or to avoid rich desserts at the evening The point then is that while sleep at night is normal and necessary, sleepiness during the day is not normal and should be investigated.

There is always a cause for wakefulness at night and this likewise should be investigated.

O'BRIEN SETS WORLD'S RECORD FOR COMPLETED PASSES

Bowing out of professional football-he joins the FBI in a few days-Davey O'Brien (center), 151pound mighty mite of the Philadelphia Eagles, gets congratulated by teammates in the dressing room in Washington after stealing the show from the winning Washington Redskins by completing a record-smashing total of 33 passes for 316 yards. It was believed to be an all-time one-game high for football in any league. Don Looney (left), Eagles end, broke another world's record by catching 14. Left to right: Looney: Herschel Ramsey, end; O'Brien; Chuck Cherundolo, center; and Phil Ragazzo, guard. But the Redskins won the game, 13 to 6, to take the eastern sectional title.

putting it in the business zone. If you do not permit the construction of such a station, the brewery, by tax default, will become the property of the city on December 7th, and it will become the responsibility of the city until sold at public auction. The property will be restricted to residential purposes only. This means that before the lot could be sold, the old brewery would have to be The charter provides that the Common Council is responsible for the real estate owned by the city and under the law, the removal of the old brewery would be a responsibility of your honorable body. In addition, the city will lose $8,700.00 in unpaid taxes on the brewery. That sum will have to be raised by taxation in the 1941 budget in the same manner as all unpaid taxes on properties acquired by the city at the end of the two-year redemption period are provided for. Not only will the city lose that $8,700.00, but it will also lose about $500.00 in annual taxes because a modern gasoline filling station would pay about $500.00 a year in taxes. The brewery is located on the corner of Wurts and McEntee streets, which is on Route 9-W, a major public highway, carrying heavy traffic during all hours of the day and night. > ceded that a modern filling station who objected to a filling station were citizens interested in proper-ty in the vicinity of the brewery who pointed out the danger of e tablishing a precedent whereby the Common Council, in order to insure collection of delinquen taxes on a property about to be acquired by the city by tax deed, would amend the zoning law for the purpose of permitting the property to be sold for industrial or business purposes thereby enhancing the value of the property and making possible a sale which would insure the payment to the city of its unpaid taxes. There is considerable merit to that argument, and I agree that to establish and follow such a policy would result in the invasion of restricted areas by business establishments that might become public nuisances, menaces to public health and destroyers of real estate values. In the case under discussion, however, such a precedent is not being established because the character of the neighborhood is not being changed the construction of a filling station on the site of a brewery.

And I do not agree with those who claim that because the street is part of Route 9-W it hould be made into a business street. I believe Wurts street is one of the most interesting and beautiful streets in the city and I believe it is the duty of the city to preserve its present residential character and fine religious at-

Because of the large volume of traffic which passes this narrow right angle turn at Wurts and Mc-Entee streets, it is important to consider traffic safety. If the brewery were removed, the corner could be widened, thereby facilitating travels in addition through tating travel; in addition, through improved sight distance, north-bound local traffic coming out of McEntee street into Wurts street could approach and enter the 9-W

SHOP EARLY... SHOP OFTEN... SHOP KINGSTON

Why Kingston And Why Early

The EARLY SHOPPER has an advantage. There is no question about that. It is true not only of Kingston, but of any city, large or small-and of any store, no matter what its size.

The reason for this is really simple. Most experienced shoppers know from experience that it is true. At the start of a selling season, Christmas in this case, stocks are complete. There is a full line, whatever may be the article desired and the customer is enabled to make a choice from a wide variety of styles, or kinds, or whatever may be the distinction. Particularly is this true in items of wearing apparel, where it is desirable to make a choice from different models, or where a small variation in size is of importance the utmost in satisfaction is to

Then, too, you will be doing our "good turn," in helping make life easier for the merchant, or the hard-working clerk. You make it possible for him to attend to your wants before the last-minute ush sets in and he is asked, and expected, to exert superhuman efforts to please you and give service. By the same token, the early shopper can be given more atten-tion and can make a more leisurely selection of the merchandise he gle, hurried shopping trip is liable to mean the missing of many de-sirable offerings which you would otherwise pass by. It's easier, too, than trying to do everything at

SHOP IN KINGSTON, of course. You will find that Kingston's up-to-date merchants have outdone themselves this year to provide merchandise that will lease you. They have stocked the latest in wearing apparel for every member of the family and at wide range of prices that will meet the capacity of any pocket-book. The same is true of furni-ture, radios, housefurnishings of kind, hardware, gifts and novelties of all sorts, fruits from all parts of the globe, candy from a penny up to the choicest, books,

It doesn't matter what you are looking for-Kingston has it.

It's Fun Wrapping Gifts for Friends

Let Package Express Gay Pleasure and Joy

Christmas joy depends not only on the gift, but on how it's given. For as much as the material worth of a package's contents, will be treasured the thought that extra moments were taken to think of some really original means to do it up.

The thought behind a gift can charmingly be expressed in the very way it's wrapped. The design of the paper can be chosen for its amusement interest.

An original jingle may be writ-ten across a sheet of solid color wrapping paper. Or for sentiment an appropriate decoration can be tied into the Christmas ribbon

So many new kinds of wrapping paraphernalia are in the stores this year, that every gift giver will be inspired to creative effects in Christmas packaging, each package having its own signifi-cance for the recipient.

Add a Rattle

Is it a gift for baby? Let an inexpensive rattle tinkle merrily, tied around the outside of the gift package. Is it a gift for a lady of fashion? Compliment her by using her favorite color combination; perhaps vivid blue for the paper and pale green for the rib-

The sophisticate will find a feast for the eyes in one of the new foil papers, solid in color; a geometric design embossed on its surface. And for tailored effect, instead of ribbon fastening, bright stick-on tape can be used to form a design The man absorbed by a workaday world, will be refreshed and charmed by a package done in one of the widely striped papers, alternating bright color with silver or gold. No bowknots for him but transparent tape which will close the package and leave it free of doodads

And the surge of patriotic feeling this year will lead many gift givers to wrap every package leaving their hands in gay red, white

Make Your Gift Suit Her Style

Choosing Will Be Easy When You've Studied Expert's Advise

By VIVIAN FREEMAN

Christmas shopping for women's gifts is easy! Man, woman or child can save hours of time in the stores, and come through smiling with "just what I wanted" for every feminine name on their gift listsproviding they first classify each requirements her way of life makes

Coming right down to fundamentals, all the women in the world can be pigeon-holed into three classifications. Either they're housewives, career girls or social

Once classified, these ladies become targets for greatly simplified Christmas shopping. It's little problem if any to decide between a set of gay aprons and comfy slippers for the homebody. The career well as a pair of gloves. And the social gadabout will trill over a bed jacket to wear "mornings after" as much as over a sequir flower to pin in her hair party

Dual personality?

There may be some women clever enough to fulfill the obligations housewife as well as career girl. There may even be a few who add to this double standard the triple threat of a hectic social life. All the better; the more varied a woman's interests, the surer any giver is of pleasing, whatever the gift. One thing is certain. A fashonable gift makes the pulse beat laster, and conjures up in a woman's mind new visions of herself playing the role of style pacesetter in her community.

Does she have a lot of leisure? If she's a housewife give her something to make-yarn and pattern for a sweater, or a dress length of fabric. If she's a business girl give her a housecoat in which to look well dressed, should unexpected guests intrude on her hours at home. And if she's the social butterfly sort, the only leisure she has is for required rest; so make her wift a hand made nightie or a pair of soled socks to patter around in when she comes home from skating

Make Gift Versatile . If she's versatile about cutting a pattern of living for herself, she'll ! How about a blouse that can worn with a short daytime, or full length evening skirt? She can be overwhelmed with a fur bolero to top her untrimmed coat or to be used as an evening jacket. And she'll wear pearls with everything

A personal bond of friendship just one exquisite handkerchief, her name embroidered in the corner-or a chenille bathrobe to bathroom's color

Is she the kind of person you can't keep indoors, rain or shine? For her there are attractive sets raincoat and slip-in rubbers which fold neatly into a small packet that can be carried in purse pocket. And should play lure her more than rain, a set of sweaters; knee high socks for ice skat-ing, or a set of hood and mittens in bunny fur will prove a pretty and practical gift. Perhaps she's very, very senti-mental. Then let Santa take heed and give her a set of lingerie spat-terer with roses in print—if they're her favorite flower. Or kitchenette aprons which picture pups like her own pet spaniel or wire-hair. Vary the Wardrobe

Is she a whiz at giving the impression that she has a varied wardrobe, just because she knows how to mix-match her accessories? Then aid and abet her fashion hobby, with a bright alligator bag that will last for years! Match it up with a belt. Or give her a glove wardrobe-three or four different colors to spike her black coat with brilliant effect.

Career girl, homebody, socialite. All live in a world of fashion. And there's no eid to the number of gift suggestions offered for them our local stores this Christ-

There are fashion gifts, too, for the off-to-college girl. Amusing like furry ear muffs and knitted knee caps to keep her warm. A velvet wrap that trails the floor will thrill her if it has a hood attached. And she'll love you for supplying her with half a dozen pair of stockings for evening wear -possibly nylons because they

No one can possibly have reason for puzzling over what to give the women they know this year! Store shelves and racks are overflowing with good fashions that will make useful gifts — popular because they're the ultimate in beauty and attractiveness.

Even for A Dollar

No one can claim they "can't afford" to give wisely and smartly this Christmas, because gay, delightful gifts can be bought-yes, for even less than a dollar! Christmas shopping for women's gifts is simple! And it's an enjoyable adventure through the beautifully bedecked aisles of the stores in town which sell gifts for women who work, women who manage homes and women who just manage to have fun! Classify them. Give them fash-ons they'll enjoy using. And it rill be a Merry Christmas all

Job of constructing motor bus bodies is nearest thing to airplane methods, in that buses have been produced of aluminum sheets assembled over frames.

FIRST AIDS TO BEAUTY, are the cloisonne type dresser woman in relation to the fashion manicure kit in a slide fastened girl will love a makeup cape as bag that's monogrammed is a righ another blob of metal on its strap.

Budget Box

The young folks having their troubles making a small income stretch to pay for every need, will welcome a Budget Box for savings. Sectioned into several compartments, each of which can be allocated to a special purchase—Vacation, Garage, Rent, Clothing, Doctor, Theatre, etc., the Budget Box is fun to use, and is a tonic for aling expense records.

Gift Certificates

Some folks are just too rushed, or too uncertain of what to buy, to enjoy Christmas shopping. For women's and children's wear, as well as things for the home or auto—offer Gift Certificates which will be made out to any amount, and may be exchanged for merchandise by the recipient.

One gift that is always in good taste, and sure to receive hearty welcome is-the gift of flowers.

Should make Hit Other Gifts Made of Fur

Are Inexpensive

This Christmas it's possible to make the grand gesture of giving a gift of fur - without spending more than pin-money.

Any woman who has a fur coat, or fur trimmed cloth coat - will relish a gift which repeats the use of the same fur. Gray kidskin on a gray suede bag is just one lovely example. And most striking is 2 little calot of Persian lamb with matching black suede gloves edged in the Persian.

Even more welcome will the gift of fur be to the girl who has an untrimmed coat or suit which can stand some dressing up.

Picture how dramatic a hat, purse, and lapel gadget of leopard can make a simple reefer. Big brimmed hats are sometimes entirely faced with beaver. And a belt of fur will nip in the waistline of any coat, suit or dress with fashionable cleverness.

Prized possession among all fur accessories, will be the handbag muff which can be bought in as inexpensive a fur as mouton lamb or as fabulously lovely as the finest mink might make it.

Fur gifts are stamped with luxury, and when they can be given inexpensively, someone on every one's Christmas gift list should fall in line for fur finery.

Choose What He Likes to Wear and Make Christmas Perfect for Him

Be Your Guide

Here Is Advice Direct From Headquarters on Gifts for Men

By KENT JOHNSON Editorial Staff, MEN'S WEAR

When Christmas rolls around each year millions of American husbands and fathers put a set smile on their faces—and prepare

They know, from years of experience, that they are about to receive a shower of non-wearable neckties, impossible socks, "gift" robes and the thousand and one other items of men's wear loving ones, in all innocence, choose as

The forced expression of joyous gratitude is even more painful to hubby, dad or fiance as the realization grows on him that not only does he have to accept these things with suitable comments on the good taste shown in their selection but that he is expected to appear wearing them at the earliest posment. Many a man has felt the blistering effect of feminine wrath simply because he has not had the nerve to face the world in an atrocious Christmas tie on the morning of the 26th. It's a delicate situation—and the ves and mothers cannot be whol-

Their hearts are in the right place and they know that nothing is more practical and acceptable for men's Christmas gifts than

The Particular Man

Where they go wrong, I feel, is the store when they find themin the stole in the stole in the stole in the stole in the selves confronted by a wide and varied selection of merchandise, only some of which is fitted for THE PARTICULAR MAN they

Dazzled by the array, they promptly forget the recipient-toe's appearance, age, personality and general construction.

They forget that they are buying something for a man to wear and so instead of buying the style, color and pattern he would like they buy things that appeal to

It's a sad commentary, but it's true that the things which appeal most strongly to our wives and girl friends are usually the ones we

Retailers for years have been situation, usually aving spent the week from Christnas to New Year's in making exhanges for the men who are taunch enough to trade-in what ney get for what they want, and they have tried their best to hold the womenfolk in leash when they come in to make their gift Their efforts are wellintentioned but by themselves are The girls have to start cooperating—and there is no time like the present for them to

Colors That Blend

For instance, if you have decided to buy neckties for your husband, realize that he is just as olor conscious as you are but that ne likes colors that blend into an ensemble effect rather than bright splashes which make him conspicous. Consider his whole wardrobe, ypes and colors of suits, shirts and socks before you go overboard on

No man can ever have enough ties. They are a well-appreciated gift IF THEY ARE RIGHT. Blend your tie gifts to his wardrobe and s set smile will change to a genune grin of gratitude.

Socks are bad offenders, too. Some women argue that a man's socks are covered up by his trouers so it shouldn't make any diference what he wears, but here they are very wrong. Men are very conscious of the wrong socks, either in color or pattern, so it is important to avoid striking a dis-Cordant note in choosing them.

Argyle plaid wool socks are dandy for a young fellow or with sports clothes but hardly in keepng with a worsted business suitas much as they may appeal to you in the store. Again, it is im-portant to think of blends with the rest of the wardrobe. For years robes have been favorite Christmas gifts for the man in the house and they probably will continue to be, but it is high time women thought of the fellows who have to wear them before they start buying. There is a wider se-lection in the market this year than ever before so it should be easy to find just the color, pattern and fabric that will click with the personality and requirements of lad who's on the receiving end. If he's of a conservative nature don't expect him to be happy look-ing like a Persian prince when he es to answer the doorbell late

What He Likes

This theory — buying what he will like — should hold true all

If you think he needs a new hat don't attemp to make a selection. Buy a gift certificate—there are some which come in miniature hat boxes—and let him choose his own. Buy sweaters and sports clothes that fit in with his outdoor hobby -in other words don't give him a ski jacket if his real desire is for a hunting coat with ample game

Know your man and don't side-track yourself when you get to the store to do your buying.

Toyland Holds Brilliant Promise of A Merry Christmas for Every Boy

the joyous holiday, the fun-filled event, the laughter ringing time it is! Christmas belongs to the young, and now more than ever, we want to wrap up this one day in bright thoughts and shining generosity, to give to the children we love. Of course Santa is the inspiration behind the whole affair, and it is on him that we can depend for the most thrilling display of toys. In an effort to and games, dolls and playthings of every description, to be showered merrily on this nation of happy, secure children. The little girl who's shy, the little boy who's way ahead of other children of his age; the child who likes to tear down and the one who likes to build up. The studious type, the frivolous—all can be completely satisfied from the stock of gifts in our local stores—now arrayed on shelves and counters, after having been shaken out to the last marble, from Santa's bag of toy-tricks.

More than "something to play with" or whileaway the time, this year's toys add to the sheer amusement they can provide, appropriateness for every age group; consideration of safety in play; interesting

If all the world were grown-up, Christmas wouldn't begin to be occupation that serves a purpose; and true educational worth.

Toy designers of this modern age, are fully aware of the early mental maturity of our children—who have fast transportation, the radio, the silver screen, and frequent newspaper editions to keep them informed of local and world matters, from the time they are old enough to be taken places, to understand adult conversation, and to

> In an effort to help children put their talents and early development to good use, these toy creators have sought the collaboration of educators and psychologists in making playthings important to the advancement of every child's mental and physical capacity.

> Toys are for relaxation, of course. But they must be vitally interesting, or they bore the bright child and fail to help the average child get ahead. Therefore, this year's toys can be made to teach, by helping the child duplicate in play, phases of home life; scientific experiment; operations of industry; means of transportation; and newly important, activities related to national defense-all with toys and games

Toys that exercise growing limbs by giving tiny arms something play. to reach for, and the legs something to pedal. Toys which promote alertness, by urging the baby to fit a peg in an opening, to balance blocks, to recognize letters and numerals. All these are evidence that to the adult world of creation, the children's fun providers are given the most serious consideration from the time they are planned on drawing paper to the time they are sold across the counters of our

A start on a career can actually be given the older child, presented with a toy which encourages progress in a particular direction.

New Baby Dolls Are Light and Feel Quite Real

Associate Editor. The Parents' Magazine

Dolls this year are bright and wonderful. They talk, roll their eyes, clasp things in their hands, stand alone, clap hands, and drink from a bottle. There are soft angelic baby dolls, dolls that look like the little girl next door, and princesses right out

For their first doll, all little girls want a large baby doll that can be squeezed and hugged. This year instead of wilting under its weight they can trot about with it in their arms for there's a new featherweight doll that looks like a its lightness, it has another newsworthy feature, for its legs are part of the body and cannot be removed, lost, or chipped.

After the newness of the baby doll has worn off, most little girls want a doll that talks. They feel that if a doll doesn't say "mama" it really isn't true, just as a story isn't real unless it has pictures. For such little girls there is a special surprise this Christmas, for now we have dolls that say "mama" and then, (possibly in answer to the modern insistence that father is a member of the family, not just the good provider) the same voice says "papa."

Dolls that do things are always popular and the magic eye dolls, which roll their eyes roguishly when prompted, are a particularly good all-around doll. Their attrac-tive clothes are another feature Dolls that act like babies as well as look like babies, such as the Dy-Dee dolls and Betsy Wetsy, are always welcome to little girls who like to play house, because good-ness knows a young mother likes to have her hands full and a baby that has to be fed and changed supplies that liking for "useful work" so satisfying to small earnest housekeepers.

Doll to Sew For

As soon as a little girl can handle scissors, needle and thimble, she wants a doll to sew for. This year, she will be blissfully happy if she can have a doll that looks like a real child so that it can be dressed to match what is being worn this year in the third grade

Almost every little girl can find a doll that will resemble herself, down to the last dimple and freckle and now that pigtails are back in fashion, dolls wear them pinafore and has a smart hat on her new red hair. McGuffey Ana's small sister, Baby McGuffey, is still winning new friends and seems to have found as many as her more famous sister. Another doll in the same family is Flora McFlimsey. Flora has an impish face with freckles running across her nose and seems the perfect companion for a mischievous small

Be Practical Is Advice Offered To Modern Wife

Doubt She Is Buying Gift for Him With His Own Money

Even the most sentimental wife will do well to look her Christmas cash straight in the eye, and admit that if she hasn't earned it herself. hubby is paying for his own giftand for that reason she'd best be practical and give him clothing he'll enjoy wearing.

No matter how generous a soul he may be, the thought may flit through his mind that if it weren't for the money he doles out as head of the house, there just wouldn't be any Santa Claus for him. But once the thought has flitted out, he'll be most appreciative of a gift which contributes to his good ap-pearance or cherished ease.

For Indoor and Out

The racks and counters of stores selling men's wear all through the city, are laden with appropriate garments for wrapping in bright paper and gay ribbons, to cheer oad on Christmas morning and long after.

For indoor hours there are robes and cocktail jackets, pajamas and slippers as carefully styled as For business and social wear

there are shirts and ties, hose and handkerchiefs—and even a hat or suit which may be bought by size. If he's a great outdoor man, he'll welcome the sur-coat or slack set, the leather jacket, hunting or fish-ing apparel, or a pair of sturdy

Clothing Practical

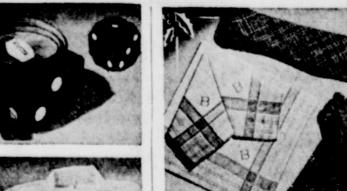

Some gifts which can be bought for a man might seem to him feminine extravagance. But not clothing—which he always needs more of, but seldom takes the time to get enough of.

So Christmas morning, make him beam his gratefulness, because you've put his hard earned money to use to buy a really practical gift—something smart to

Gifts of Furniture Will Make Scene In Home a Perfect Christmas Picture

Table and Desk, Lamp or Cabinet

These Are but Few of Many Recommended by Expert on Home

By HAZEL L. KRAUS

pirector, Metro Furniture Service There is no better measure the Christmas spirit than degree of hospitable harmony, sparkling cleanliness and perfect comfort prevailing in the American household. Here is the background against which the gay greetings, the cheerful picture of holiday happily spent, can best

This is why Christmas can never be compared for the family, no matter how large or how small, or how many or how few genarations are representated in the im-mediate circle, without serious mediate circle, without serious consideration given to the things which go to make up the home. They, too, must be included on every gift-giving list.

A bright little poem written by Douglas Malloch, sums up the picture in the following lines:

A chair—a table near it,
A lamp to light the gloom . . . To bring the Christmas Spirit Give something for the home.

Give something for the home.
There isn't a furniture store in the nation that does not realize its responsibility to the public in helping to fulfill this spirit. Right now

A handsome piece of furniture in traditional design, done in light or dark wood, it affords shelf and drawer facilities in addition to a smart drop-leaf writ- utensils also of wood-all colors.

May be Inexpensive

The gift of furniture need not be expensive at all. There are a horde of smart pieces which can be bought under twenty-five dollars, some for as little as five dol-

Magazine racks, butler tables which can be stowed flat in the closet, and need only a button pressed to release sturdy legs. Bridge tables and chairs; lamp, end and coffee tables; telephone tables with matching chairs; daintily carved hanging wall racks; smoker's tables to tidily conceal pipe and tobacco collections; nest tables which serve a maximum of guests yet take up a minimum of pace; typewriter tables for career cople who work at home; bedside stands which serve as reading tables and breakfast trays. There's an ample variety of all sorts of attractive home furnishings to in-spire the gift giver with little or much to spend. A particularly gracious Christ-mas thought, is for all members of the family to pool their gift funds rather than buy unimportant, in-dividual gifts—and take the lump sum to perform a really grand ges-ture for the home. GIVE SUNSHINE THIS CHRISTMAS!

Now, more than ever, Venetian Blinds are the perfect answer to that very special gift problem. They bring sunshine into the home in more ways than one. First, there's the light you get by merely tilting the slats. Then there's the spiritual "light" that comes from having a beautiful decoration on windows. For this reason we suggest Venetian Blinds with tapes and slats that are done in cheerful, pastel colors. Because we make our Venetian Blind to order we can give you any color combination you want. Just ask for one of our representatives to call and give you complete information. There's no obligation.

OUR PLEDGE ...

Only quality materials, such as Thomas French's tape, go into the making of our Venetian Blinds.

Replicas as Gifts

A charming idea for Christmas giving is to buy mother and daughter, father and son, or sister and brother gifts that are replicas of each other.

Mother and sister, for example, would love white fabric gloves for party wear. Father and son will get a kick out of wearing the same pat tern muffler.

And brother and sister will look cute in the same suspend-ers holding up shorts and skirts respectively.
